2. Dr. Shankar Raj Pant Research Award

Dr. Shankar Raj Pant Research Award is established with the financial support of Prof. Dr. Shankar Raj Pant under the guardianship of Nepal Mathematical Society. Prof. Pant is a former president of Nepal Mathematical Society, and a former faculty and HoD of the Central Department of Mathematics, Tribhuvan University, Kathmandu Nepal. This award aims to provide a Nepali research scholar pursuing doctoral degree from Nepalese Universities in the field of Mathematical Sciences each year. To be nominated for Dr. Shankar Raj Pant Research Award, the concerned research scholar must have published outstanding original scientific research articles in the field of mathematical sciences in reputed international/national Journals. The award comprises a certificate, Token of Love, and NPR 20,000/-.

In general terms, the publication must be of exceptional scientific quality. More specifically, the publication must meet the following criteria.

- 1) Creativity and originality/novelty:
- 2) Importance and usability for science
- 3) Presentation: well-structured with a coherent and consistent methodological order that ensures intelligibility of what is being said, and with a logical conclusion.

Necessary documents:

The submission should contain the following documents.

- A cover letter explaining why the publication should be considered for the Research Award; this explanation must address each criterion (see above)
